

NATIVE EMAIL

Native email delivers custom content in our brand voice to enhance user experience. Co-produced with our editorial specialists, native email integrates your marketing message within our content strategy to drive higher engagement and generate leads for your business. Feel confident your message will make an impact with 100% share of voice.

Processing

Flow Control

Water Technology

Not rendering correctly? View online here.

Beyond the basics of pump selection for process applications

Pump users are typically familiar with the flow and pressure needs of their applications and what they plan on pumping. However, when it comes to pump selection, this information should be considered a starting point, not an ending point. The following article outlines 5 fundamental areas pump users must consider to ensure the pump is properly mated to the application.

LEARN MORE

Brought to you by:

You received this email because you registered an email address with the Process Flow Network or a Process Flow Network partner. To unsubscribe from 3rd-party partner promotions, click here.

Unsubscribe | Privacy Policy

© 2017 Grand View Media | 200 Croft Street, Suite 1, Birmingham, AL 35242

Template applicable to all brands.

SPECIFICATIONS

To kick off the content development process, please provide the following:

- › Up to 300 words on native email subject
- › Image: 550x300 pixels
- › Company logo
- › Any additional material to inform the development of anchor content for the program

LIMITED AVAILABILITY - First come, first served.
Based on a monthly inventory maximum.

Want more information?
Contact your sales rep today!

processflownetwork.com